Kim Pelham

"I don't just sell homes here. I live here."

Real estate isn't about transactions. It's about people walking through life's biggest transitions.

KIM, ON HER PRACTICE

ABOUT KIM

Kim Pelham is the principal broker of The Pelham Group NW, brokered by Katrina Eileen Real Estate. Based in Everett, Washington, she serves clients across Snohomish County and into King County, with deepest roots in Everett, Mill Creek, Bothell, Snohomish, Lake Stevens, Marysville, and Mukilteo.

With 17 years in real estate and three additional years in commercial property management, Kim is also a published author (Six-Word Lessons on Selling Your Home in Seattle), an in-house home stager, a Senior Move Specialist, and a host on The American Dream TV, where she films community and home segments across Snohomish County. She built her practice around a single principle: real estate is not a transaction, it is a transition.

The Pelham Group NW is intentionally small. Kim works with a maximum of two active buyers at a time so every client earns her full attention. She answers her own phone and stages many of her listings personally, with no monthly furniture rental fee. Her 102% sale-to-list ratio, and a spring in which every listing but one sold at full price and two sold over asking, are the result of that focus, not in spite of it.

"I'm not the broker who shows up in a Mercedes with high heels. I answer my own phone."

ON HER PRACTICE

"Real estate isn't about transactions. It's about people walking through life's biggest transitions."

ON THE WORK

"I take a maximum of two active buyers at a time. That's not a marketing line. It's how the math of attention actually works."

ON HER DIFFERENTIATOR

"I almost always charge for staging. I keep the cost low. I don't charge a monthly rental fee. It's not a profit center."
